PRESENTATION:

This course, taken during the first semester of Year 4, is part of the itinerary of Mención en Educación Física (módulo 14).

Learning and Psychomotor Development is closely related to Psicomotricidad, Juego y Aprendizaje a subject taken in Year 3 (Infant Education degree's students). Inherent to the evolutionary development of the child, movement acquires a significant importance as a facilitator of integrating and comprehensive learning.

Along this course, gaps between learning and psychomotor development are bridged by analysing specific teaching proposals as well as supportive tools and methods.

Upon successful completion of the course, students should be able to:

- be aware of essentials of psychomotor development as a source of learning.
- assess infant education psychomotor development programs critically.
- design an in-class psychomotor proposal by taking into account the particular aims to be achieved.

PRE-REQUISITES:

Given that Learning and Psychomotor Development is closely related to Psicomotricidad, Juego y Aprendizaje, subject taken in Year 1, it is desirable that students taking part in this course have successfully completed that subject, but this is not a MUST.

It is highly recommended that this course be taken in conjunction with the other courses within Mención Educación Física since several tasks are applicable to all these courses of this Mención.

This course is taught exclusively in English, therefore, in order to be able to follow the course properly, students should have preferably acquired a level of language proficiency in English of B2 within de CEFR, but not less than B1. If students do not meet the language requirements, they should consider enrolling in an English language course (https:// www.usj.es/ es/ be-international/ ilm/ formacion/ ingles).

In the event of attendance of Erasmus students, a B1 level of language proficiency in Spanish is desirable in order to follow properly Spanish content -workshops, seminars, readings,...

TEACHING AND LEARNING METHODOLOGIES AND ACTIVITIES:

Teaching and learning methodologies and activities applied:

During this course a variety of teaching methods will be used including lectures, class discussions, role plays, simulations, small group work, and independent study. Furthermore, activities based on experiential learning methodology will be used.

An important requirement is to participate actively in class discussions and in your small groups, as well as on the practical activities. Your contribution is important and through your active participation we can all learn further from each other and about the topics analysed. It is through practice and experience we learn how to communicate in class and how to effectively manage a classroom.
